

Best care for your most vulnerable patients the New GSF Silver Course for End of Life Care

Supported by the General Medical Council

A two day course with support and homework between workshops to enable your practice team to care better for all vulnerable patients in the final years of life and make the best of the Avoiding Unplanned Admissions DES. Open for GPs and all team members, this course includes useful interactive teaching, practical tools and resources and simple measures ensuring real and sustainable improvements in patient care.

1. First workshop - 16th October at Mary Ward Centre London. 10am - 4.30pm
2. Homework, DVDs, guidance, measures and support between workshops
3. Second Workshop February 2015 (TBC) - London. 10 - 4.30 pm

Cost £195 each or £295 for both - reduction for 2nd or 3rd team members

Led by Prof Keri Thomas, Dr Karen Chumbley, and the GSF Team

Supported by and including guidance from Tista Chakravarty-Gannon of the GMC

If you require support with:-

- complying with GMC Guidance on end of life care
- identifying more of your patients early for the supportive care register (the 1-2%)
- organising and prioritising care so the right thing happens at the right time
- having advance care planning discussions with patients
- reducing hospital admissions and deaths (e.g. maximising the DES)
- improving carer support and bereavement
- measuring your progress and impact on key outcomes

..then the GSF Silver Training Programme could be just what you need!

The College is pleased to support GSF, as a major component of the RCGP End of Life Care Strategy. GSF provides a standard against which we can measure our practice and a means to further improve it.
Professor Nigel Mathers, Vice Chair, RCGP

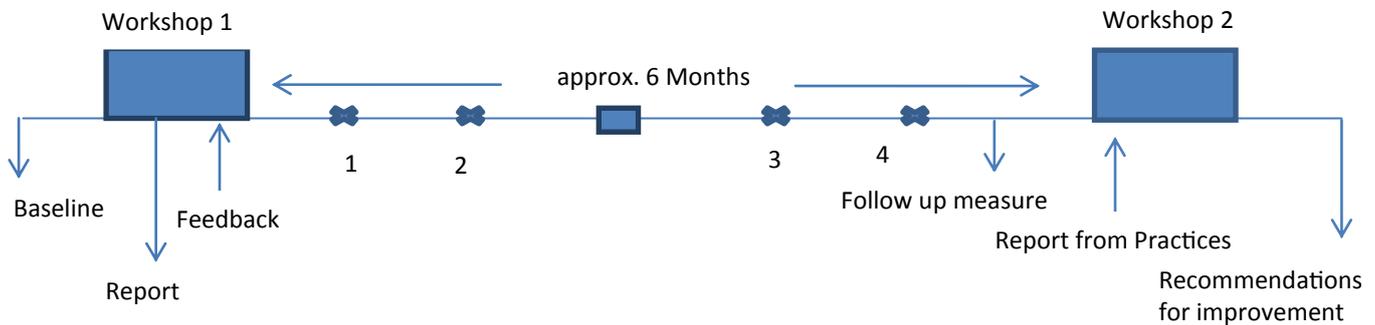

GSF Accreditation is supported by the Royal College of GPs

GSF Going for Gold is the best way to achieve the DES in a way that enables and embeds good practice long term"
